OSCE-LED SURVEY ON VIOLENCE AGAINST WOMEN

WELL-BEING AND SAFETY OF WOMEN

QUESTIONNAIRE

Survey on women's well-being and safety

Questionnaire

Final version 2018

CONFIDENTIAL – PLEASE DO NOT DISTRIBUTE

Preventing and combating violence against women is a core area of the OSCE's work in promoting gender equality. Although violence against women and girls (VAWG) has been recognized as important and efforts have been made to determine its scale and nature through international or, more frequently, national surveys, the results were never comparable on a regional scale due to the use of different definitions and methodologies.

The OSCE-led survey is the first comparable regional survey ever conducted that captures the prevalence of violence against women and girls in the target area. With its comparable data, the OSCE-led survey makes it possible to examine the situation in participating States as well as on the regional level and enables regional initiatives and actions. The ultimate goal is therefore to provide evidence for informed decision-making and advocacy.

This research is based on the methodology used by the European Union Agency for Fundamental Rights (FRA) for its 2012 survey on violence against women in 28 European Union member states. This OSCE-led survey is therefore comparable to the FRA survey. The OSCE added to the survey several questions on norms, attitudes and behaviour related to violence and reporting experiences of abuse, in particular to ensure comparability of its data with the EU data on gender attitudes and norms (Eurobarometer No. 449).

This questionnaire was used by interviewers in order to survey a representative sample of 15,179 women aged 18–74 living in Albania, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Montenegro, North Macedonia, Serbia, Moldova and Ukraine in order to establish the prevalence and consequences of violence by using a multistage, stratified, random probability sample design. The sample also included women living in Kosovo¹. The data is weighted to the known population profile. An additional weight (population weight) was calculated to enable reporting for the entire sample of the selected OSCE participating States. The same was done for Kosovo. This weight reflects the distribution of the survey population across the area covered. Interviews were conducted by female interviewers who received training on the implementation of the survey.

This questionnaire, much like the FRA questionnaire, is meant to serve as a guide for further survey and research work in the area of combatting VAWG and may be used as such by researchers and other organisations.

The formatting of the final questionnaire will depend on factors such as the interview mode. This document presents the framework of the final questionnaire, which will need to be formatted and edited before use in the field. Therefore many aspects related to how the questionnaire looks should not be considered final, and the final questionnaire will be adapted for fieldwork use in cooperation with the survey contractor.

Translations of the survey into the local languages are available upon request. Kindly contact project management at: safety.survey@osce.org.

Note 1: The text in bold is meant to be read out to the respondent. Question marks indicate where the interviewer should wait for the reply of the respondent before reading out the next item.

¹ All references to Kosovo, whether to the territory, institutions or population, in this text should be understood in full compliance with United Nations Security Council Resolution 1244.

We will be interviewing women across 8 countries in the region to better understand their opinions and experiences. The findings from the survey will be used to improve the lives of women.
- I would like to assure you that all the information we collect will be kept in the strictest confidence and used for research purposes only. It will not be possible to identify any particular individual or address at any stage of the research/survey. Your participation in the survey is fully voluntary and you always can refuse to answer any questions. Is there anything you would like to ask?
