ISCO08 - Occupation ISCO 2008

Please give the text of the source question(s) on the respondent's occupation used in your field questionnaire. If ISCO08-codes are not coded directly from the responses, but derived from a country-specific occupation coding scheme, please provide a table of correspondence between country-specific and ISCO08 codes attached as a separate file. Also when you derive ISCO08 from another ISCO scheme, such as ISCO88, ISCO-COM (a variant developed for the European Union (EU)), or ISCO88-CIS developed by the Statistical Committee of the Commonwealth of Independent States, please document the source code and provide a correspondence list.

Please do not enter standard ISCO08 codes here, but report any deviations. However, please note that country-specific codes, which are not part of the ISCO coding scheme cannot be accepted!

Occupations should be coded on the 4-digit level of ISCO08. Occupational area 0 (Armed Forces occupations) needs some special attention. Since the ISCO variable is numeric, 4-digit codes starting with zero, such as 0110 will usually appear as 110 in the data file. It is therefore suggested that the only valid 3-digit codes in the data file are those armed forces occupations 110, 210 and 310.

In some special cases information concerning the occupation may be insufficient for 4-digit coding. Instead of coding these cases as [-8] "inadequately described" use 3-digit coding. In those very special cases where 3-digit coding is applied, fill in a zero for the missing digit. Example: code 131 is coded as 1310.

DWEIGHT_HH – Design weight – household samples

Design weight to adjust for unequal selection probabilities introduced by the use of household sampling.	No	[ ]
	Yes	[X]

Construction/Recoding:

Country Variable Codes/Construction Rules	? DWEIGHT_HH
	1. No weighting

Note

In a mobile phone random digit dialing (RDD) sample survey, initially all mobile phone number owners are expected to have equal probability to be selected in the sample. However, some people may have more than one mobile phone number. Thus, the final sampling probability (and consequently the sampling weight) can be obtained after the process of data collection is completed, as both of these estimates need to be adjusted according to the number of distinct mobile phone numbers owned by each respondent. For instance, the sampling probability (or weight) for someone who owns two mobile phone numbers should be double (or half) of the sampling probability (or weight) of someone who owns one mobile phone number only. To achieve this we estimate the DWEIGHT_HH as 1/[number of mobile phone numbers owned by the respondent] and then we transform the values so that their mean is equal to one.

DWEIGHT_TS – Design weight – target stratification

Design weight to adjust for unequal selection probabilities introduced by oversampling of particular regions or groups.	No	[X]
	Yes	[ ]

Construction/Recoding:

Country Variable Codes/Construction Rules	? DWEIGHT_TS
	1. No weighting

Note

PSWEIGHT – Post-stratification weight

Post-stratification weight to adjust for biases introduced by unit non-response or non-random sampling error.	No	[ ]
	Yes	[X]

Construction/Recoding:

Country Variable Codes/Construction Rules	? PSWEIGHT
	1. No weighting

Note

We have used raking and trimming from the R package survey. Raking allows multiple grouping variables to be used by post-stratifying on each variable in turn, and repeating this process until the weights stop changing. Of course, there is a trade-off between the reduction of estimation bias and the increase in the sample variance arising due to the variation in the weights. The increase of sample variance is not large when the variation in weights is modest, but as the variation of weights increases the variance in the sample can become very large. A common practice to reduce the variance of the weights is to truncate the weights (we have used the value 8 as the upper bound.) The total amount trimmed is divided among the observations that were not trimmed, so that the total weight remains the same. After applying raking and trimming on age, gender and education, we have transformed the weights so that their mean is equal to one.
